LOW GHI TURNOUT

All Four Incumbents Returned to Board

In the lowest turnout since 1966, 335 Greenbelt Homes, Inc. members participated in an election which saw all four incumbents — Norman Weyel, James Smith, James Foster, and Virginia Moryadas — re-elected to another 2-year term on the GHI board. The fifth opening went to Ted Byerly, who eked out a four-vote victory over Henry Fisher. His term will be for one year.

Top vote-gatherers were the veterans Weyel and Smith, who between them have won over a dozen elections to the board. The margin among the candidates, however, was small. Only 32 votes separated the 1st and 4th spots. The results are shown in the accompanying box.

The five winning candidates now join the present four incumbents — Stephen Polaschik, Don Volk, Mary Clarke, and James Wright — to round out the 9-member board. The organization of the new board and the election of officers will take place at the next meeting of the board on Thursday, May 20.

Elected to the 3-member Audit Committee without opposition were Margaret Hogensen (242), Bobbi McCarthy (239), and Arthur Gropp (230).

Also elected without opposition was a 5-member nominations and elections committee. The new committee consists of Josie Seay, Katherine Keene, Janet James, Wayne Williams, and Martin Haker.

Evening Meeting

The low turnout at the polls was also reflected in the low turnout at the evening business meeting on Thursday, May 13. Fewer than 100 members showed up. The only action taken was membership approval of a pay hike for board and audit committee members.

The pay of board officials was raised from $1,000 a year to $1,250. Other board members would have their pay raised from $750 to $1,000. Also raised was the pay of audit committee members from $250 a year to $350, with the chairman receiving $450 instead of $350.

From the discussion it was apparent that the pay hike was in part the membership's way of showing its appreciation to the board for undergoing the abuse heaped upon it by a dissident group who challenged the honesty of the board. The State's Attorney a fortnight ago dismissed the allegations of criminal wrongdoing as without basis.

Of the 342 members who were issued voting slips, 196 were brick members and 146 frame members. There were 7 proxy votes cast.

NOTICE

HOUSING FOR ELDERLY

ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN PRESENTATION

THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1976 - 8 p.m.

The City Council will hear presentations by several University of Maryland Architectural Students on their Individual Design Plans for a Housing for the Elderly Building to be located at the Ridge Road Center Property. Along with the plans, building models have been prepared. Surrounding buildings and the topography of the area are also depicted on the models so that an idea of the relationship of the new building to existing buildings can be determined.

These plans and models were prepared by upper level students as part of their course work and represent their ideas as to the design of the Greenbelt Housing for the Elderly project. As such, they serve as idea concepts for others to consider. The city has not yet employed an architect to prepare actual design plans for the building.

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED.

PRIMARY RESULTS

Greenbelt Vote Follows State, Area Patterns

California Governor Edmund C. Brown had little difficulty in winning the Democratic preference primary for U.S. President in Greenbelt. He won in all three precincts to amass 1,313 votes or 49 percent of the total, against 743 or 28 percent for Jimmy Carter. Third place went to Morris E. Udall who got 393 votes or 15 percent of the total. Minor candidates accounted for the remaining 8 percent.

In a closer race, Paul S. Sarbanes garnered 48 percent of the Greenbelt vote (1,238 votes) to win out in Greenbelt over Joseph D. Tydings for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator. Tydings received 43 percent of the vote and the remaining candidates 9 percent. Sarbanes will face next November incumbent Republican Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. who was unopposed in the primary.

In the Republican primary, the only contest of any nature took place for the U.S. Presidency. President Gerald Ford drew 364 votes to 271 for challenger Ronald Reagan in Greenbelt for a 57 percent majority.

Gladys Noon Spellman and John Burcham easily won their party's nominations in Greenbelt for U.S. Representative from the Fifth Congressional District.

Not only were there few voting differences among the precincts, but the Greenbelt vote also mirrored the area and Statewide results. The precinct breakdown (see table on page 8) shows only one major divergence. Tydings won at North End, lost heavily at Springhill Lake, and ran neck-to-neck at the Center.

In the Democratic delegate race, the Udall slate led for the most part, with the exception of one high vote for a Carter delegate, Leo Green.

About 2700 Democrats and 700 Republicans voted in Greenbelt's three precincts. This represents about a 51 percent turnout for the Democrats and a 39 percent turnout for the Republicans.

Auto Dealership on Golden Triangle Creates Doubts

by Elaine Skolnik

Slated for location on the Golden Triangle, Capitol Cadillac of D.C. was one of eight developments that received a favorable reception from the county council for sewer authorization on Friday, May 14. Both the county executive and the county council are in the process of determining sewage priorities for the new Anacostia Interim sewage treatment plant scheduled to open in September 1976. Their recommendations will now go to the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission for final action.

County councilmen Paris Glendening and Frank Casula opposed the Cadillac sewage allocation, and the motion to approve was passed after Glendening moved the inclusion of two stipulations: (1) the developer must submit an overall development plan for the tract and (2) the county council notify the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission of its concern that outdoor vehicle storage not be oriented to the Beltway and that appropriate landscaping be required.

Cadillac on 6 Acres

According to preliminary plans, the Cadillac automobile dealership would be located on 6 acres at the east end of the 57-acre Golden Triangle, bounded by Greenbelt Rd., Kenilworth Ave., and the Capital Beltway.

Glendening's major concern was that the prime development land would be turned into an auto sales park where there would not be a single car dealership, but a number of dealerships "selling anything from a $14,000 Cadillac convertible to the lowest Chevy compact. Add to that the noise and unsightliness of an auto repair and body shop and we're talking about more strip development."

"I've dedicated myself to avoiding that type of growth wherever I can, and that goes for a Cadillac dealer just as it goes for fast food carry-outs and warehouses," Glendening said.

Denies Auto Park Plans

Kenneth H. Michael, owner-representative of the Golden Triangle, said that plans for the auto-park have been abandoned. "At one point," he noted, "we were trying to minimize the impact in terms of traffic and low sewage flows and were limited to the kinds of development, such as an auto park which generates low sewage and attracts a low volume of traffic at peak hours."

Michael said it is now possible to move in other directions. A large medical building, a high-rise office building, dinner theatre, and motel are in the offing. Additionally, he said, there is the possibility of just one other automobile agency, Lustine Chevrolet, locating on the triangle if "it could be blended into the overall tract with no adverse impact . . . We wouldn't talk contract until they satisfy us, the county council and the Greenbelt city council."

Against Strip Development

Glendening emphasized that he isn't against Capital Cadillac's move into Prince Georges County. "I just believe a more suitable location can be found for an auto park to save the valuable intersection for more pleasing development."

Glendening pointed out that Greenbelt's "Golden Triangle" is a unique site with "superb transportation access." The Baltimore-Washington Parkway, Capital Beltway, Kenilworth Avenue and Greenbelt Road all feed into the site.

"One corner already is developed with a handsome office building," Glendening reiterated. "Now we have the chance to make a showplace of the whole area by carefully planning development on the other corners. Certainly we should avoid strip development at all costs."

"As you move down Greenbelt Road to Kenilworth Avenue, the eye is assaulted by strip development—one shop sporting a modern facade here and another shop looking more like a warehouse just next to it," Glendening described. "By bringing in a car dealer we could well be continuing that sort of strip development, and more of that we don't need."

Seek High Quality

The county executive and county council felt that Capitol Cadillac was a prestigious organization and would bring high quality development to Prince Georges County. The agency was given the highest priority for sewage by the county executive's Economic Development Advisory Committee on which Michael serves.

Greenbelt Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, who attended the May 14 meeting, said he was disturbed that the city had not been officially notified that the matter was coming up. Weidenfeld told the county that the city finds less desirous an automobile park such as Lustines than one like Cadillac which brings a certain stature to the county. Glendening and Casula also voiced the view that there should be consultation with municipalities before approval is given to the allotment of the Anacostia Basin's limited sewage capacity.

Weidenfeld said that Greenbelt city council had great reservations about allowing piecemeal development and approved wholeheartedly the development of a total concept plan for the Golden Triangle before proceeding with future plans. Michael said he is preparing such a plan.

The Anacostia sewage treatment plant will have a capacity of 2 million gallons per day, 1 million of which is reserved to eliminate overflows. Of the remaining capacity, 750,000 gallons a day (75%) will be reserved for industrial and 25% or 250,000 gallons a day for public use, including urban renewal.

New Visitors Center Now Open at NASA

by Mary Colombo

On May 18 a new Visitors Center was opened at NASA/Goddard Space Flight Center. Here the general public can see what's happening at NASA now. They will discover that NASA is not only involved in manned and unmanned space flight missions but in many other projects as well. For instance, many NASA programs are concerned with development of useful applications of space technology.

A self-guided tour takes visitors through the center and to Building 14 behind it, where the Missions Control Centers and additional exhibits are on display.

One of the exhibits visitors can see is an operating space weather station which will record live satellite photos for public display. The photos will show the current weather systems over the U.S. and parts of South America. For several hours a day, a communications research satellite will be available for public use. Visitors can relay their own voices some 45,000 miles roundtrip through the satellite which is positioned 22,000 miles overhead in a stationary orbit.

Up-to-date reports from NASA facilities around the country will keep visitors informed on the active program now under way. In another exhibit, current flight missions and their status will be displayed.

The Visitors Center is open to the public 5 days a week, Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There is no admission charge. Souvenir and snack shops are open and adequate parking and picnic facilities are available. The Center is located on Soil Conservation Rd. The entrance, off Route 193, is well marked.

CITY NOTES

The replacement of a bad roof on the swimming pool lobby was finished. A bad section of a sidewalk on Westway Road was removed and replaced. The street repair program began in Lakewood on Greenhill Road.

The paper collection netted 7½ tons last week and 8 tons and 80 lbs. two weeks ago. This was the best week since the resumption of the collection. The paper price is still $20 per ton. Greenbelters are urged to save their newspapers for collection each week by the refuse crew. Aluminum may be brought to the public works warehouse on Crescent Road next to the Lake Park on weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. - noon.

Red and white begonias were planted in the Bicentennial flower bed on Greenbelt road. The Center mall flower boxes are now sporting red and white begonias and blue ageratum. The beds on Southway have been prepared for planting.

Recently ordered playground equipment has arrived.

Participants in city recreation programs totaled 14,695 in April. This is an increase of 5,204 participants over the same period last year.

Sabbath at Mishkan Torah

Friday night services at Mishkan Torah (JCC, Ridge and Westway) will begin at 8:30 p.m. and include a discussion on "Jewish Superstition", led by Les Klein. On Saturday morning services begin at 9:30 and will include a discussion of the Israeli occupation of the West Bank of the Jordan and its recent political implications. David Stern will review "The Cursed Blessing" by Shabtai Tevet, in which the relation between Jews and Arabs under that occupation are described. All are welcome.

K-Mart Negotiating For S. Klein Store

K-Mart, the discount department store chain in the Washington, Maryland, and Virginia area, is presently negotiating for the recently closed S. Klein Department store in the Beltway Plaza Mall. According to Bill Bach of Beltway Plaza developers, it is expected that a deal will be closed shortly and K-Mart will take over the store during the coming summer months.

Meanwhile, there has been a lot of activity in the 640,000 square foot Beltway Plaza Shopping Center of which S. Klein was a part. Plans have been drawn for the addition of two department stores and the expansion of the west end by 100,000 square feet of additional stores. This will bring the Center up to 1,200,000 square feet.

The Beltway Plaza Mall complex, containing some 75 stores, has some new tenants -

A Tobacconist Shop was opened by Joaquim Martinez, who also has a shop in the New Carrollton Mall Shopping Center. Also joining the center is the Three Brothers Pizza and Italian Grocery. The Clothes Bin, Fashion Factory, Discount Hardware - Toys - Auto Supplies, Sporting Life, Barton-Barricini Candy Shop all opened during the past year.

Opening soon will be Ho's Chinese Restaurant - the fourth of a chain in this area, and the "New City Office Supply" and furniture store.

Additionally, several existing stores have expanded their operations. "The Continental Hobby-crafts" shop has grown from 600 to 2,400 square feet, "Knits 'n Things" from 800 to 1,200 square feet, and the "Mall Recreation" from 800 to 1,600 square feet.

Ground will soon be broken for a new free standing Pappy's Family Restaurant and a 9,000 square foot lease has been executed with The Family Fish House, originator of the "all you can eat" seafood restaurant concept. The advent of the Fish House will bring to ten the total number of restaurants located in the Beltway shopping center!

Sending Metro to Ballot

First District Councilman Frank Casula has proposed that the question of construction of Metro's Greenbelt alignment go back to Prince George's citizens for a referendum vote. Referred to Council's Human Resources Committee, CR-37 asks that the Metro question, the first since citizens originally voted in favor of the system in 1968, be placed on the November general election ballot. The question would elicit citizen opinion on the entire Greenbelt alignment rather than specific support for either the ARS (Adopted Regional System) or I-95 routings. The cost of the full 98-mile rapid rail system has nearly doubled since voters considered the $2.5 billion mass transit mode in 1968. Prince George's share of the operating deficit has continually escalated.

Letters to the Editor

In Answer To the Editor:

I purposely waited for a reply to my letter to Arthur Marshall, our P.G. Co. State Attorney, knowing the delay would be explained by a one sided investigation. At no time was I asked to elaborate, produce additional evidence (which I have) of fraudulent statements to the membership and the unauthorized use of specific charges for other purposes.

Arthur Marshall's suggestion as to a civil suit is ridiculous, and he knows it.

Let me define the difference between PUBLIC LAW and CIVIL LAW. The key to the problem is the fact that even though only one individual or his property may be harmed, the community declared by law, by that act the public has been hurt.

In a criminal action it is the State through a public prosecutor (Arthur Marshall) P.G.Co. which initiates the action.

In a criminal action the object is to PUNISH the wrongdoer.

In a civil suit the object is to COMPENSATE the one who has been wronged.

As Mr. Marshall seems unwilling to pursue the case for undisclosed reasons, I suggest we appeal to the U.S. Attorney for a special prosecutor for Prince Georges Co. in the State of Maryland, to protect the equity of Greenbelt Homes 1, 575 members.

Martha Hutzler

Winch Needed

A couple of days ago one of my neighbors worked up a good case of sweat and strain while getting the remains of a post that had been set in concrete out of his front lawn and after it had been removed from the lawn, Special Trash was called to pick it up along with some other items.

However, when the Special Trash truck came by they picked up the other items and left this hunk of concrete and it is still on my neighbor's front lawn.

Being the gadfly that I am, a call was placed to Special Trash about this situation. And I was informed by the young lady that answered the telephone that several of our city employees have sustained back injuries when trying to put articles on the truck.

Considering this situation, it is no wonder that the workmen were hesitant in trying to put a hunk of concrete some two and a half feet long by a foot and a quarter in diameter on the back of the truck when they would have to raise it some four feet by hand! They simply didn't want to risk any further injury!

Considering that you can purchase a winch such as used on boat trailers at a very reasonable cost and jury rig a crane utilizing one of these winches for well under $100, it seems that our Department of Public Works would do well to rig such a crane on the back of the Special Trash truck - or others as desired - to assist with the handling of heavy objects that are impossible to get a proper purchase on! Yes - $100 for a crane would be far less costly than the compensation for a permanent injury to one of our city employees!

City Would Be Responsible For Housing Applications

I hope this letter will clarify who will be responsible for taking and processing applications for Greenbelt's proposed senior citizens' housing.

Since new construction will be involved, the owner - the City of Greenbelt - will have that responsibility. The State of Maryland Department of Community Development will administer the Housing Assistance Payment Contract and inspect the apartments annually.

Where existing housing is involved our Housing Authority is responsible for taking and processing applications, as well as inspecting the apartments. The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) reviews our work.

We currently manage a federally funded housing assistance program involving 297 families in existing apartments scattered around the County, and are applying to HUD for funds to assist an additional 150 families.

Earl W. Morgan, Executive Director, Prince George's County Housing Authority

More On Elderly Housing

I am delighted that Mrs. Viola Keer has acknowledged the accuracy of my statement that the city could not discriminate in selecting eligible families for occupancy of Senior Citizens Housing - not that the city proposed to do so. The city, however, will accord preference to Greenbelt residents.

I pointed out too, that, in accepting a mortgage loan from the State, the city undertook to repay the loan, the collateral for which is the property itself. With this she appears to agree, but she suggests that the project may be so loaded down by "... extraneous costs, even partially paying for an addition to the Municipal building, it wouldn't possibly be economically feasible." The last, she alleges, "some persons have been led to believe" If "some persons" believe that the city would use elderly housing funds for an addition to the Municipal building, then they would probably line up to buy the Brooklyn Bridge.

Mrs. Keer alleges that I am in error about Attick Towers. How?

I quoted a letter of hers of December 4, 1975, in which she wrote that the "Federal government purchased the land, constructed the complex (approx. 165 units), administers it and subsidizes the rents. In my letter of May 6, I disputed each assertion of fact except the subsidizing of rents. In turn, her letter of May 13 describes Attick Towers as "Constructed, owned and operated by the College Park Housing Authority ..."

Charles F. Schwan

For Elderly Housing

College Park, Takoma Park, Rockville and many other communities have successful housing for their senior citizens, partially supported by the federal income taxes we pay. It seems to me that Greenbelters should work towards one for Greenbelt since we pay these taxes anyway. I would feel that I am getting some value and sense and human compassion for my community and its senior citizens and disabled.

Therese Stringfellow

Thanks

I wish to express my deep appreciation to my neighbors and the Greenbelt Homemakers Club for their kindness and help in my time of sorrow. I wish it to be known that they not only brought food but also served and remained to clear up afterward.

Thank you all.

Maxine Mullikin

Who Is Concerned?

Someone asked, "Who are the Concerned Citizens Group?" In December, 700 citizens signed a petition expressing their concern. This only indicates that we don't have total apathy. Wouldn't it be Utopia if everyone would join me in saying, "I'm truly a concerned citizen"?

Margaret D. Zanin

Real Concern

It strikes me that the real "Concerned Citizens Group" in Greenbelt is not the people who call themselves by that name. It is rather that larger group of ordinary compassionate citizens who are honestly concerned with the welfare of our senior citizens and disabled.

They want to make sure that they (and our community) receive our fair share of the Federal tax monies that are being used to provide these senior citizen apartment buildings all over the U.S. (the same as College Park, Rockville, Takoma Park and other communities have done for their citizens). They are also concerned for local taxpayers. This humanitarian project adds not one cent to their fellow citizen's city or local property tax costs, and actually could help lighten local tax burdens by taking some of our more than 100 older, low income citizens off the local property tax credit relief rolls.

Also, employment will be provided for many of their Greenbelt neighbors who may need work - both during the long construction period, and later on, permanent service jobs at the project.

This is my idea of what a genuine "Concerned" Citizens Group should be like.

Latest on Bike Path

Work has begun on the bicycle path the State Highway Administration is constructing along Greenbelt Road. An eight foot walk is being installed along the south side of Route 193 west of Kenilworth Avenue. When completed, this bike lane is expected to involve both sides of Greenbelt Road between Lakecrest Drive and Kenilworth Avenue and just the Berwyn Heights side of Greenbelt Road from Kenilworth Avenue to Indian Creek where it will eventually meet a County trail. It will then be possible to bicycle between Greenbelt and the University of Maryland as well as other points.

Cost of Keeping Greenbelt Clean: Larger Park Crew, Higher Charges

by Al Skolnik

"How to keep Greenbelt clean without additional manpower?" was the question thrown at the city council by parks superintendent Dennis Doornekamp at the May 10 budget session. Doornekamp told council that his parks crew needs two additional persons for the city to be able to keep the roadsides free of rubbish and brush. The problem becomes particularly acute at this time of the year as people clean up their yards.

The budget proposed by city manager James K. Giese calls for no increase in the present size of the parks crew of four. Adding two positions would mean between 2-3 cents on the tax rate.

Since the council was little inclined to add to the payroll in a year when the proposed budget already calls for a 13-cent tax increase other alternatives were discussed. One suggestion by Doornekamp was to eliminate roadside collections for certain types of rubbish and brush and designate a central collection spot to which homeowners would bring bundled material. Council was not optimistic that this arrangement would be enforceable.

Another suggestion was to eliminate special pick-ups and instead designate one or two days a month to limit special pick-ups to heavy equipment and to avoid pick-up of material involving long trips for the crewmen from the drive-ways.

The city manager has proposed an entire public works staff of 32 persons, 3 below the current number. These 3 positions were dropped because they were funded through the federal public employment program (CETA) last year and there is no assurance that any federal funds will be available for the coming year.

Waste Collection

An increase in waste collection fees from $5 a month to $5.50 for single-family homes and Greenbelt Homes, Inc. was proposed by the city manager. Without this increase, a deficit of $6,250 is expected from 1976-77 operations, and this deficit does not take into consideration any cost of living salary adjustments for employees. The increase will yield additional revenues of $12,200. Council saw no alternative to the increase, especially since it will be faced with added costs for the landfill in the following year.

Capital Improvements

City council has a policy of setting aside the yield from a 3c tax rate for the undertaking of capital improvements. However, shortfalls in revenues over several years have prevented the spending of these funds.

It is estimated that the shortfall in the current year will amount to $19,900. Thus, if the council wishes to make up for this shortfall, it will have to set aside 5c to 6c on the tax rate in fiscal year 1977, instead of 3c.

The only capital improvement project being undertaken this year (fiscal 1978) from the earmarked funds was $12600 for the preparation of Ridge Road from Northway to Eastway for resurfacing including curb and gutters and widening of shoulders. It will take another $9,000 to complete the project in fiscal 1977.

Other projects scheduled for fiscal 1977 are construction of curb and gutters, widening of pavement and extension of sidewalk from I-A Gardenway to Crescent; resurfacing of Olivewood Rd., Maplewood Rd., and 500 feet of Lakeside Drive; resurfacing of all streets in Lakewood subdivision; construction of sidewalk from entrance map on Southway to Ridge Road on east side; and construction of bicycle path 3-feet wide adjacent to sidewalk on east side of Lakecrest Drive between Greenbelt Road and entrance to Lake Park and curb and gutter and shoulder work between Lakecrest Circle and Greenbelt Road.

Council was receptive to these projects and added one more — the resurfacing of the sidewalk along Crescent Road from Lastner Lane to Northway.

With no more budget workshops scheduled, the council will be heading in to the public hearing to be held on Monday, May 24, at 8 p.m. at the city offices. The budget must be adopted by June 10.

GHI Directors Hold Last Meeting of Term

by Olga Penney

Don Volk chaired the last GHI meeting before elections on Thursday, May 6 with 19 people attending.

The suggested motion for converting 19 small boiler plants from steam to hot water was approved.

The board approved a motion to allocate up to $24,174 for replacement of sidewalks. This amount is higher than anticipated but allows Burton's Masonry to go ahead and fix more sidewalks, should the need arise, without having the members vote on it again.

A resident has a possibly illegal shed on her property, which she wants to sell with her house. GHI policy is being decided on this matter, and at one of the next three meetings the shed must be an item on the agenda for a final decision. Also, a letter will be written to potential purchasers warning that the shed might have to come down.

A one-year contract with the Service Bureau Company, to supply monthly posting services at a cost not to exceed $7,416, was approved for a first reading. The second reading was waived.

A new member brought up the matter of protecting buyers of homes from defective water, heat, etc. A new inspection form has been developed that should check facilities thoroughly from now on.

Dorine Shields suggested having townhouses appraised at a fair market value, since presently the price of GHI townhouses is less than comparable complexes. This was referred to the finance committee.

Golden Age Club

The Greenbelt Golden Age Club celebrated its 21st anniversary April 28 at the Youth Center. Mrs. Ina Stewart, one of the present members, helped organize the club in 1955. She also was the second president. Guests were James Giese, City Manager, Dennis Pienak, Asst. City Manager, and William Lane, Chief of Police. They spoke on the benefits offered to senior citizens. Over 130 senior citizens attended, as well as the Recreation Department staff.

The club has a 'Bicentennial Trail Trip' leaving June 14, returning June 18. Part of the trip will be over the route of Dr. Prescott and Paul Revere. They will also visit Valley Forge and Philadelphia. Other sights will be the Liberty Bell, Betsy Ross's House, NBC Studio, the U.N. Building and a boat trip around Manhattan. Lodging will be at the Americana Hotel. In Boston, they will view the Old Christ Church, U.S.S. Constitution, and the Old Meeting House where the first American Revolutionaries met to plan the American Revolution.

There are 10 vacancies and friends or relatives of Golden Agers are welcome to come along and share the fun. For information call Bob Dove, 474-8435 after 5 p.m.

ESTIMATED COSTS UPPED FOR METRO ROUTE

Notified that $69 million has been added to the price tag for the Adopted Regional System (ARS) alignment of the Greenbelt Metro route County council affirmed that it isn't yet committed to building the $297 million line. Reiterating its earlier stance, council stressed that no final decision will be made on the Greenbelt route until General Plans are completed in approximately 18 months and funding arrangements are sealed.

County council last month voted to hold up construction of the Greenbelt and Branch Avenue routes until all metropolitan area jurisdictions approve a deficit allocation formula to mete out the rail system's annual operating deficit.

At the same time, council stipulated that no construction be authorized until a legally binding agreement is made with the state or federal government on an "acceptable level of participation" in the county's share of the expected operating deficit.

Councilman Francis White, council's representative to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, brought the latest construction estimates, as an informational document only. According to the newest calculations, the ARS alignment will cost $297 million to build, $69 million more than earlier estimates.

The federal government, which now recognizes the rail system's cost at $4.65 billion, probably will pay 80 percent of the higher ARS cost—or approximately $55.2 million. In the past, the Maryland Department of Transportation has picked up 75 percent of the remaining tab, which could mean that Prince George's will be liable for approximately $3.5 million. There is no requirement for state government funding. Some calculations have put the system's total cost at more than $5 billion and rising.

In the meantime, Harry Hughes, Secretary of Maryland Department of Transportation, did little to buoy Greenbelt's hopes for a subway line that would parallel the B & O railroad tracks and terminate near Greenbelt Road (the ARS alignment). In a letter dated April 28, 1976 to the county executive and county council chairman, Hughes reasserted the Department's full support of an E route alignment that would terminate at the I-95/I-495 interchange.

The main hang-up with the latter route is the Department of Agriculture's reluctance to have its Research Center property used for a terminal station in a location east of College Park Woods.

Hughes said that even if a compromise cannot be worked out with Agriculture, he doubted whether State participation is justified in the preparation of a general plan for the ARS alignment.

"As you know, this alignment, estimated at $300 million, is not supported by any of the several studies performed to date, nor is the alignment recommended by the WMATA staff nor the staff from the several other agencies involved," Hughes declared.

Hughes hoped that a decision to proceed with general plans for the so-called I-95 alignment will carry the understanding that the county government will conduct a "comprehensive and objective reevaluation of the relative merits of the ARS and I-95 alignments at the conclusion of general plan preparation."

A Catfish Story

On the morning of May 18, James McCallister and his son, Jim, 5 years old, of 18-A Ridge Road, were fishing from a rubber boat in Greenbelt Lake. Suddenly, Jim got a bite on his line. He was unable to hold on, so his father took over. After landing the fish, James noticed that it was exceptionally large. He measured the catfish and found it was two feet in length and weighed six pounds. All fishermen take notice — you, too, may catch the BIG ONE.

Council Gets Development Plan for Parcel 7 Field

by Al Skolnik

Development of parcel 7 (near Boxwood Village) as a recreation area threatens to erupt once again as a controversial issue on council. At its Monday, May 17, meeting, city council received a grading and sediment control plan for the parcel which shows a combined baseball-football-soccer field at the southern end of the property near Crescent, a free play area at the Ivy Lane-Ridge Road corner, and a tot lot play area and handball court at the Lastner Lane - Ivy Lane corner.

Councilmen Tom White and Dick Pilski immediately expressed their reservations about placing a ball field near a residential area. White said that this is a special concern with respect to parcel 7 because of its proximity to the Lake Park with its overcrowded conditions. He felt that a ball field would only attract more Lake Park visitors and compound the parking problem in the area. Both White and Pilski suggested another public hearing on the subject. In reply, councilman Richard Castaldi cited the pent-up need for additional ball fields.

Council decided to hold off any implementation of the plan until it received further economic and cost analysis. City manager James Giese said that funds are not available at the present time to undertake the development of the entire parcel. However, he said a decision on the whole parcel had to be made so that the proper grading and cuts and fills can be made for immediate construction of the one aspect—the playground—which everyone is in agreement on.

The city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board has approved the city plan, subject to a number of modifications and restrictions. The most significant of its recommendations was the erection of a fence on the Lastner Lane side of the field, so that participants using the field who drive will park on Ridge Road and Crescent Road. Also suggested were angular parking along Ridge Road, no field lights for night activities, and restricting organized activities in favor of youth and women's programs.

Giese said that there would be no problem with installation of fencing, except that it would make accessibility to the area difficult for a great many Greenbelt residents, including Boxwood children. As for angular parking along Ridge Road, he said this is not possible because of its width. He also noted that Ridge is a State-maintained highway not under the jurisdiction of the city. Giese also thought that limiting of use to certain groups might be challenged as being discriminatory since the field would be a public facility.

Emler Supported

Giese announced his recommendation to continue the city's employment of John D. Emler and Associates on future street construction projects in which city inspection is required. Greenbriar Associates had petitioned the city to remove Emler as inspection engineer for Greenbriar on the grounds that he has made unreasonable demands in enforcing the code, causing delays in the project and creating "excessive" costs.

Giese said that his findings were based on a careful review of the files and on outside consultations with the best engineering authority on standards he knew of.

He said that he found no evidence of Emler exceeding his authority as inspector, requiring work to be done that exceeded city standards, or failing to act in the public interest.

Giese noted that inspection work performed by the city is more thorough, more constant, and more strict than that performed by some other agencies responsible for the inspection of construction work. "Greenbelt," Giese said, "has consistently sought a higher standard of service than that performed by other agencies and it is therefore fully consistent for a higher level inspection service to occur."

Giese said that in the time he has been associated with Greenbelt, there has been no inspecting engineer utilized who has spent as great an amount of time in personal on-site inspection as has Emler. Nor, he added, has there been another inspector who has been as thorough and complete in his review of plans, testing of materials and examination of work.

Giese concluded by saying that unless additional information is made known to the city, there is no basis for the removal of Emler.

The council, without dissent, endorsed the position taken by the city manager.

JCC Assessment

Council gave final approval, after public hearing, to a change in the initial assessment ordinance enacted in 1972 for the widening of Westway adjacent to the Jewish Community Center. The change permits the city to undertake the work instead of seeking bids which have proven to be excessively high.

Under the assessment arrangement, the Jewish Community Center will be assessed 50 percent of the $7,300 project, to be spread over a 15-year period with interest. The work will include widening Westway by five feet and construction of curb, guttering, and sidewalk.

Charter Changes

Two charter changes were adopted. One permits the city to deposit funds in financial institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation and the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corporation such as Twin Pines. The other provides for quarterly dates of finality for assessments so that, for example, new construction completed in the first quarter of the year would be added to the tax rolls as of April 1 instead of July 1.

Park Patrolman

Council directed the city manager to start recruiting for a part-time park patrolman, to be hired on an experimental basis. His job would be to enforce park and recreation regulations, primarily at the Lake Park. While not a sworn police officer, he would be authorized to issue warnings concerning offenses and to issue parking tickets. The funds for his job would come from delaying the appointment of one of the proposed additional police officers by three months.

Other Matters

The council received a report from the Community Relations Advisory Board recommending that streets in Glen Ora be named after two former mayors of Greenbelt—Allen Morrison and Thomas Canning. The criteria used by CRAB in selecting these names was to exclude the current council members and to require at least 10 years service on council.

An informational meeting featuring a model of what the elderly housing project will look like on the Ridge Road Center property has been scheduled for Thursday May 27 at the city offices at 8 p.m. The model and a presentation will be delivered by the University of Maryland architectural students who prepared the model.

Council agreed to a PRAB recommendation to present a Greenbelt flag to the representative of the Eleanor Roosevelt senior high school. . . . It authorized the borrowing of $50,000 in tax anticipation notes, as the city will be temporarily short of funds until taxes are due in September. . . . It introduced for first reading an ordinance allowing the city to levy a personal property tax on non-incorporated businesses.

Solid Waste - Another Solution Offered

Proposals receiving much attention these days are plans for converting solid waste to energy, thus helping to solve two problems at once. The University of Maryland is the latest to consider plans for constructing a plant that would convert solid waste to energy in the form of steam.

Greenbelt city officials along with those from other municipalities were invited to a meeting on April 29 to hear the latest. As presented by Charles Jantho, director of the University's physical plant, the plant would burn approximately 800 tons of solid waste per day, producing steam to be utilized by the University for heat and possibly air conditioning. The only similar operation in this country is currently in Nashville, although according to Jantho, the process is more common in Europe.

Present forecasts indicate that the University's current steam plant located on Route 1 would serve their needs through 1980 after which time an alternative would be needed. A principal advantage of such a plan, besides the energy generated for the University, (which at current prices is estimated to produce a $2½ million savings in fuel costs for the campus) is that an estimated 800 tons of trash would be burned by the plant which is approximately 75% of the volume landfilled at Brown Station Road. According to Jantho approximately 1,500 tons of solid waste are generated in the county daily with 1,100 tons handled at Brown Station Road.

For such a plant to be operational, there would also be the need for transfer stations in which the trash would be compacted and then hauled to the campus in trailer trucks at the rate of approximately 20 truckloads per 24 hour period. While Jantho spoke enthusiastically of this project, council councilman Hartlove and council administrator Kenneth Duncan were less than enthusiastic, expressing reservations on the ability of such a plant to meet EPA emission standards as well as State emission standards, which were described as more stringent than those of EPA. It was noted that the Nashville plant had had emission problems and it was left unclear whether these had been totally corrected.

Lastly, it was noted that the expected life of the Brown Station Road landfill is now estimated as not beyond 1985 which would also involve moving ahead with alternatives such as the Mt. Trashmore proposal. For such a plant as described by Jantho to reach reality would require State, County, municipal and University cooperation because of: (a) the volumes of trash required; (b) capital investment necessary ($20 million or more); and (c) the need for transfer stations. The only disposal cost data provided was that the cost for dumping trash refuse in a plant like this would not exceed the cost of disposal at Brown Station Road which is presently $4 per ton.

City Trash Pick-up Policy

The City receives a number of calls concerning the failure of the City to pick up all special trash at one time. This is usually because the City disposes of different trash in different ways. Leaves are picked up by the leaf vacuum and piled at various locations in the city where they are used as soil conditioners after decomposition. Tree trimmings are ground up in the City chopper and are used in a variety of ways in the City parks. Old appliances are taken to a scrap salvage company. Other material is disposed of in the landfill. If a resident has more than one type of item to be picked up it may necessitate the request being handled by more than one city crew and that is the reason for partial pick up being made.

The city provides special trash service to all City refuse collection customers. Special trash should be placed near the location of the regular trash pick up and not on the street. The number to call to request a special trash pick-up is 474-8004.
